Hopeful Of Nixon Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appalachian governors hoped their meeting with President Nixon today would persuade the chief executive to use their unique 13-state redevelopment program as the cornerstone of his "new federalism."

The governors requested the private 3½-hour meeting in Lousville, Ky., so the President could hear first-hand their proposal to use the concept of the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Nixon has pledged to create a new partnership in federal-state relations by approving block grants with no strings attached. The idea has been on the drawing boards for some time.

The President planned to fly to Cincinnati after the meeting to attend the all-star baseball game.

The Appalachian governors' appeal is based on "the notion that separate levels of government can't go their separate ways and that some type of political instrument will have to be set up in federal-aid programs," said Ralph Widner, executive director of the commission.

It hinges on developing several regional commissions with a national scope to apportion federal aid according to locally planned projects.

Widner said the governors thought the national commission concept should particularly apply to urban growth policies and problems of the environment.

The commission, in existence since 1965, approves federal grants only after the states and local governments have submitted detailed plans to develop a region.

The governors believe the concept has worked in starting Appalachia, one of the poorest regions in the country, back on the road to economic recovery.

They point to cities and counties that have banded together to form local development districts to make plans for federal aid projects.

Gas Station Demolished By a Dynamite Explosion

By GARNETT JOSEPH
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

An explosion ripped through the Hudson service station at 641 East Broadway early Tuesday morning, demolishing the structure and shattering windows in buildings nearby. There were no injuries.

Police Chief William Miller said it was believed the station had been dynamited. The blast occurred at 1:24 a.m., a little over an hour after an attendant had closed up for the night.

Glenn Shahan, executive vice president of Hudson Oil Co., who viewed the damage Tuesday morning, estimated the loss at between $6,500 and $7,000. He said he had no idea as to a motive for the attack.

The blast originated in the ladies rest room at the northwest corner of the station, authorities said. Attendant Bill Lynn told police he had checked the rest room before leaving the station at 12:10 a.m. and noticed nothing unusual. The rest room was locked and Lynn saw no one else in the area.

Commenting on the exact nature of the explosive device, Miller said, "It appears to have been a high power explosive, probably dynamite with a slow

Manson's Jury Selected After One Month Delay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After questioning 141 persons in four weeks, defense and prosecution attorneys appeared ready today to accept seven men and five women as the jury to try the Sharon Tate murder case.

The only reservations about the proposed panel came from Irving Kanarek, attorney for defendant Charles Manson, 35-year-old shaggy-haired leader of a hippie-type "family."

Kanarek said no one on the jury represented Manson's "way of life."

Attorneys for Manson and three girl followers on trial with him already had exhausted their permissible peremptory challenges of prospective jurors.

So Kanarek tried another tack —a motion to quash the indictments on ground of discrimination in the selection both of prospective trial jurors and the grand jurors who indicted the four defendants.

Superior Court Judge Charles Older dismissed the motion, saying he was satisfied there had been no denial of the defendants' rights.

Many potential jurors were dismissed after saying it would be a hardship to be locked in a hotel for the trial's duration—estimated at three to six months.

Several persons were dismissed when they said that pretrial publicity surrounding the killings of the actress and six others had biased them against the defendants.

The proposed jury is predominantly middle aged. The youngest member is William T. McBride, a chemical reactor operator in his late 20s, and the oldest Alva K. Dawson, a former sheriff's deputy, who is 73.

All but three of the jurors are married, and, although all exact ages weren't given, the average appeared to be about 45.

Prosecution and defense attorneys still must choose six alternates who would replace any jurors eliminated by illness or other emergency during the trial. Selection of alternates was expected to last the balance of the week.

"We are going to use the same meticulous care in picking the six alternates," said coprosecutor Vincent Bugliosi. He predicted that opening arguments in the trial might start next Monday or Tuesay.

Cambodia Achieves Big Resort Takeover

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian infantrymen fought their way up the jungled slopes of Mt. Kiri Rom Monday afternoon and recaptured key parts of the resort area 50 miles west of Phnom Penh, a military spokesman reported today.

Fighting continued on the mountain today, and the Cambodian command reported another force of about 1,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese smashed into a battalion headquarters 25 miles south of Kiri Rom. The spokesman said the attackers inflicted heavy casualties on the government force at the village of Srak Neak, then withdrew, carrying their dead and wounded with them.

The current Communist objective in Cambodia appears to be to shatter government units and inflict casualties to damage the morale of the Cambodian forces.

The heavy fighting west and southwest of Phnom Penh once again imperiled Highway 4, the capital's only link with the deep water port of Kompong Som and the country's only oil refinery, the military spokesman said.

Kiri Rom is 10 miles north of the highway. The military spokesman said the relief force of Cambodian mercenaries recruited and trained by the U.S. Special Forces in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta had retaken the main hotel and other positions.

The 300-man government garrison stationed atop the 2,000-foot mountain was overrun early Saturday with heavy casualties. There has been no official report of total casualties in the fighting, but the government claims enemy losses are high.

The military spokesman also reported more harassment of Government forces at Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of Phnom Penh. He said heavy reinforcement of government troops there continues as the Cambodian command prepares for a second major Communist offensive against the town, a provincial headquarters. Kompong Thom was under siege for nearly all of May and June.

Survey Results Positive

A survey of low income housing areas in Sedalia has been completed. and most of the persons interviewed "are very much interested" in a city recreation center, according to Morris Byrum, chairman of a committee to investigate such a center.

Byrum said Monday that he had received the results of a survey conducted by the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp., and antipoverty agency that includes Pettis County.

The survey covered 2,205 homes, housing 5,223 people, Byrum said. He said 71.6 per cent of the households had incomes of $5,000 a year and less, and that 41.7 per cent of those interviewed had incomes of less than $3,000 a year.

The latter category included 2,183 persons, the largest block in the group interviewed.

Of the families represented in the survey, 3,951 persons were Caucasian and 1,272 were Negro, Byrum said.

The survey was conducted in such low-income areas of the city such as the North Side, the area east of Ohio and north of Broadway, the Vermont Park area and in the southwest part of the city.

While the survey did not specifically seek opinions on the proposed recreation center, Byrum said canvassers "found real good response from those interested." He said he could not give an exact breakdown on responses favorable to the recreation center.

The recreation center, to serve both young people and the elderly — especially those in low income brackets — was proposed recently by Mayor Jerry Jones during a discussion with young people.

The survey is required by the Old Battle Still Rages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 109 years after the bloody battle of Wilson's Creek raged over a Missouri meadow, a congressman and the National Park Service have refought the engagement in a Capitol Hill hearing room.

The loser this time may have been history.

The new fight opened Monday when Missouri Rep. Durward G. Hall told a House subcommittee the original battle, fought Aug. 10, 1861, was a Union victory.

"This battle... was the first great defeat for the confederacy and deprived the Southern cause of Missouri's food supplies, minerals, arsenal and industry," the Republican congressman said while testifying in favor of designating Wilson's Creek a national battlefield.

But George Hartzog, National Park Service director who also supported the proposal, counter-attacked: "The Union forces... were defeated, and as a result the Confederates advanced through a large part of Missouri."

History appears to stand with Hartzog. The standard Civil War texts describe Wilson's Creek as a significant Northern defeat, one that left the Union stunned and without one of its most capable generals.

The battle began when 5,400 Union troops commanded by Gen. Nathaniel Lyon staged a surprise early-morning attack on some 10,000 Confederates camped near Wilson's Creek in the vicinity of Springfield.

After five hours of bitter fighting, the Union forces pulled back, having suffered 944 casualties, including Gen. Lyon, fatally shot in the chest. The South lost 1,157 dead or wounded.

According to one prominent Civil War historian, the outcome of Wilson's Creek left most of Southern Missouri under secessionist control until the following March when the Union scored a smashing victory at Pea Ridge, driving the Confederates from the state.

When asked after the hearing about the discrepancy, a Park Service spokesman said: "We insist the South won. When the battle was over, Union troops had fallen back 120 miles to Rolla, Mo."

But Hall's aide pointed to a Park Service's pamphlet as authority for calling the Northerners victors.

The quoted pamphlet:

"At the battle of Wilson's Creek the State of Missouri—rich in food supplies, in minerals, and in industry, and in all the resources so sorely needed by the South — was lost to the Confederacy. This was the first great defeat of the Southern cause, and, in the end, proved fatal."

Miners Continuing Drive To Halt Coal Production

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Faced with a mounting stack of federal court restraining orders a handful of disabled miners pressed on today with their attempt to halt coal production in the rich, five-state Appalachian fields.

Fifteen mines employing some 5,000 miners in three states remained closed by pickets early today, but leaders of the Disabled Miners of Southern West Virginia conceded that unless the stoppage spread quickly it was doomed to failure.

The pickets were sent out to dramatize demands for liberalized pension and hospitalization, benefits from the United Mine Workers union.

Early reports today indicated that seven mines in southern West Virginia, four in eastern Kentucky and four in western Virginia, were shut down by pickets.

But no help had come from western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio areas which supported a similar stoppage three weeks ago.

Mike Trbovich, president of the Clarksville, Pa., based Miners for Democracy, said he was "with the miners in West Virginia" but that legal difficulties arising from the previous shutdown had tied his hands.

Leaders of the disabled miners group hoped for a general shutdown to put a severe strain on already low coal stockpiles of the nation's utilties and to force concessions by the UMW.

Trial Witness Is Found Dead After Indictment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has disclosed its main witness in a conspiracy case involving $43 million in stocks and securities stolen from the U.S. mails was found shot to death just two days after a grand jury returned a sealed indictment in a secret session.

The Miami slaying of John B. Eaton was the second shooting of a key suspect in mail thfts from New York's crime-ridden Kennedy Airport in little more than a month.

Eaton's body was found in a field near Miami International Airport June 27, just a month and a day after another man charged in a stock theft from the mails was found stuffed in an abandoned car at Kennedy Airport.

The Federal indictment in Miami charged the remaining 10 men with conspiracy to dispose of the $43 million in securities stolen from registered mail at Kennedy Airport being sent between brokers and banks from 1967 through 1969.

Eaton, charged in a stock theft last year, was found slain in a field west of the Miami airport only two days after the stock conspiracy charges were returned by a grand jury that kept the indictment sealed until Monday.

A federal attorney in Miami has named another man charged in a case involving allegedly forged U.S. savings bonds as a prime suspect in Eaton's death.

Joel J. Rostau, 34, Los Angeles, who had been charged with interstate theft of securities from the mail at Kennedy, was found shot to death May 26 in a parked car at that airport.

The car had been rented in Boston and driven to New York at least 12 days before the California man's body was found. The slaying was similar to the fatal shooting of a suspect in another mail fraud case who was found in an abandoned rental car at LaGuardia Airport in New York several months earlier.

Women File Suit To Get Married

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP) — Two women whose application for a marriage license was rejected this week filed suit in Jefferson Circuit Court Friday seeking to force the county clerk to issue it.

Clerk James Hallahan rejected the application of Marjorie Ruth Jones, 39, and Tracy Knight, 25, on advice from county Atty. J. Bruce Miller.

Miller said a U.S. Supreme Court decision allowing Utah to forbid polygamy among Mormons is applicable to the case in that the marriage of persons of the same sex is against the nation's social, ethic and public policy.

Arrow Rock Is Seeking Talent For Festival

By MARY PROCTOR
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

ARROW ROCK — Central Missourians with a talent, training, or even just a yearning to perform can "do their thing" at three-day music festival July 27-29, according to Jay Turley, producer and director of the Jane Froman Music Center here.

Turley, also producer of the new Santa Fe Outdoor Theater, and co-founder 10 years ago of the now famous Lyceum at the restored village which was one of the earliest settlements in the state, said that the festival is open to "anyone of any age who likes to act, sing, or play a musical instrument."

Interested performers can audition the first two days, and if selected, each night will appear in a musical production staged at the center, housed in the renovated building which served as a schoolhouse when Arrow Rock was a bustling community housing luminaries such as George Caleb Bingham, the artist, and Dr. John Sappington, pioneer physician who discovered the use of quinine to combat malaria.

Non-music, electronic sound is the only type of music ruled out by Director Turley. Folk songs, old and new; classical, concert singing or playing, and dramatic auditions are welcomed and encouraged.

"We want Arrow Rock to become a real culture center, the whole atmosphere of the area lends itself to self-expression. The festival will open new vistas to people who love to express themselves through acting or singing," Turley explained.

The Lyceum, supported by culture-starved Central Missourians, was established in 1959 by Friends of Arrow Rock, and the works of the best playwrights are enjoyed during the three-month season from July through October.

This year, the Jane Froman Music Center, named for the internationally-famous singer who has returned to neighboring Columbia, where she was born, acts as musical consultant to the center.

One of the practical aims of the late-July festival is to generate talented, or interested Central Missourians with a drama-music camp established this year to provide professional training throughout the summer months. Students may pitch in to do many chores toward putting on a show — whether it be the Lyceum, the music center, or Turley's thrice-weekly Santa Fe Outdoor Theater — a production that tells the legend of one of Turley's ancestors who ran away from his family with a Spanish beauty, leaving five bags of gold for his one — only four of which have been discovered.

Turley, his wife, farm superintendent, and cook make up the cast. The same crew, plus students from the Lyceum cast and the center, play leading roles. They also stock the playbill for the "outrageously corny" musical productions at the music center, which complement the sophisticated Lyceum repertoire.

Several Sedalians have already shown an interest, Turley said. The Jack Gray family has auditioned and will perform as a group as well as individually. This includes Mother, Mrs. Jack Gray; two sons, Steve and Tom, and two daughters, Diane (Mrs. Tom Trout) and her husband, Tom, both of whom teach music at Higginsville and have appeared in concert in this area, and Nancy (Mrs. Fred Nuzum).

"Abe Rosenthal, (director of the Sedalia Symphony) showed great enthusiasm," according to Turley. Several young people too, whose pastime is gathering just to relax and sing folk songs to the accompaniment of a folk guitar, have begun rehearsing. Turley was attempting to round up the Sedalia Sing-Out group. "The Jeff City Sing-Outs" are going to audition, and I've heard the group in Sedalia was good," he said.

Turley also is proud of the fact that the dramatic and musical attractions of Arrow Rock will be featured, as well as the Williamsburg-like restoration of the small river town, in a story to be published in a fall issue of National Geographic magazine.

New Crime Control

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland church opens a 24-hour-a-day "Justice Line" Wednesday so persons can make anonymous telephone reports of crime in their areas.

The Rev. Roger S. Shoup, minister of Calvary Presbyterian Church, said Sunday that many persons, particularly in the inner city, are reluctant to inform police of criminal activity.

Flag Jacket Note Not Desecration

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A superior court judge has ruled that under the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech a youth was not desecrating the flag when he wore a jacket bearing an American flag marked with the words: "Give Peace a Chance."

Judge Tate J. Beal overturned on appeal Thursday the conviction of Charles Parker 17, of Maiden, N.C., who had been ordered to pay $15 court costs in state district court.

Parker had worn the jacket April 9 at a meeting at the Charlotte branch of the University of North Carolina.

The honeymoon is over. Can you make it on your own?

We hope so.

Maybe your folks could help out if you get in a financial bind. Maybe they couldn't. It will be better for both of you if you don't have to ask them.

When you pay your own way, you earn the right to make your own decisions.

One of your new responsibilities will be paying your own hospital and doctor bills. If you are both under 34, the chances are 1 in 5 that you will need hospital care this year. Pretty good odds. But not good enough.

Think about this.

Two Classes of 1930 Hold a Reunion

Members of Class

Friendships made in the Smith-Cotton High School classrooms 40 and more years ago were renewed Saturday and Sunday when members of the two classes of 1930 were brought together for a reunion. The event was celebrated in private homes and with a dinner at the Old Missouri Homestead on Saturday night, and a meeting and dinner held on Sunday morning and early afternoon at the Holiday Inn.

There was a moment of contention when a prize was announced for the class member traveling the greatest distance to attend the observance, and Mrs. Helen (Moore) Long, Kiel, Wis., and Mrs. Jack (Louise Allen) Finley, Garland, Tex., were contestants. Mrs. Long won out when she gave her speedometer reading which indicated she had traveled 635 miles.

Harry Stephens, Wichita, Kan., won hands down the award for having the most grandchildren — 15 — when other members were admitting to no more than 10.

Harold Bernard, who lives a few miles northeast of Sedalia in Clifton City, beat out Marvin Hood, Lake Lotawana, Mo., for the award for being retired the longest. On comparison it was found that Hood had retired in 1968 and Bernard in 1967. Bernard is spending much of his time sculpturing, an endeavor he had wanted to pursue much of his life, but for which he was unable to find the time.

Mrs. Al (Velma Gordon) Domingue was awarded the prize for being the parent of the youngest child — 14 — but she was contested closely by James McCabe, La Grange, Ill., who is the father of a couple of youngsters still in their teens.

Other prizes, including door prizes, were presented to Mrs. Martin (Florence Hert) Goodrich, Mrs. Pete (Elizabeth Pfeiffer) Stohr, Seigel Woodard, Mrs. Leo (Mildred Stevens) Leiter, and Robert Moore, all of Sedalia, and Vincent Igo, Liberty, Mo.

Charles Patterson, chairman of the reunion committee, was presented a gift for his work in connection with arrangements. He recognized Mrs. Martha (Taylor) Woolery, Mrs. John (Doris Dabner) Linville, Miss Lee Ona Ream, Mrs. Ross (Bernice Winch) Stephens, and others who had assisted in the work of the reunion committee.

Seigel Woodard eulogized the members of the class who had died, and suggested to those in attendance it was time "to do their thing — all those things they had been planning to do but had never seemed to find time to accomplish." Using the student names of those who had died, he read:

William Anderson, Leslie Bennington, Hazel Bernard, Arthur Bratton, Kathryn Brown, Alice Burchfield, Eugene Butterwick, Cline Cain, Margaret Calvert, Kermit Dyer, Clark Evans, Helen Fine, Carter Hamilton, Frances Herrick, Johnny Housel, Margaret Hyatt, Leo Leiter, Nan Mahnkin, Harry Mayo, Margaret Moore, Sye Parks, Eugene Pratt, Maxine Raymond, Brandt Ridgeway, Ross Sanford, Marie Schmitt, Ralph Shackelford, Fannie Silverman, Merle Statten, Newman Wainscott, Charles Weaver, William Wells, Edgar Williams, Reuben Wisner, Elsie Mae Young and Louise Younger.

Patterson called on Kenneth Love, who had been president of the Senior A Class (the first half year class to be graduated in Sedalia) which was graduated in January, 1930, and Vincent Igo, an officer of the Senior B Class which was graduated in May, 1930, for brief remarks.

Al Domingue sang a parody, "There's Been Some Changes Made," which delighted the audience.

Miss Edna Snell, Mrs. Eva Graves Johnson, Mrs. Lois Fricke Curtis, and Pinkney Miller, who have retired from teaching at Smith-Cotton, and Miss Juanita Berry, secretary to the superintendent of schools, were guests of the Sunday dinner and meeting.

The group voted to hold its next reunion in 1975 and to invite the class of 1931 to join with them in the reunion.

Graduates of the 1930 class present:

Mrs. Jack (Louise Allen) Finley, Garland, Tex.; Mrs. Ray (Violet Ruth Bennington) Fuller, Leawood, Kan.; Harold Bernard, Clifton City, Mo.; Mrs. Ralph (Marie Beuth) Raybourn, Grandview, Mo.; Mrs. H. L. (Willanna Brown) Overmier, Sedalia; Mrs. Clarence (Alberta Cassing) Thoma, Sedalia; Henry Cassing, Sedalia; Mrs. Don (Florence Clark) Mayfield, St. Joseph, Mo.; Mrs. W. M. (Irene Clayton) Riecke, Sedalia; Mrs. Maupin (Elizabeth Cordry) Mitchell, Kansas City; Mrs. John (Doris Dabner) Linville, Sedalia; Samuel Golden, Marshall; Mrs. Al (Velma Gordon) Domingue; Sedalia; Mrs. Harold (Ruth Gottschalk) Painter, Sedalia; Mrs. Kenneth (Ellen Haggard) Weinrich, Sedalia; Claude Hammond, Kansas City; Mrs. M. WASHINGTON (AP) — The Secret Service has asked that the number of demonstrators in the area around the White House be limited in the interest of security.

In a report issued Monday, the Secret Service director said that without such crowd limitations, White House guards would have no alternative but to shoot to kill if large numbers broke onto the grounds of the executive mansion.

The Secret Service asked that National Park Service regulations be amended to allow no more than 100 persons on the Pennsylvania Avenue sidewalk nearest the White House, and a limit of 500 in Lafayette Square across the street.

All demonstrations would be barred from streets adjoining the east and west sides of the White House enclosure.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society and the Black Panthers can be blamed for much of the turmoil which swept the nation's major cities and college campuses last year, says FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The Weatherman group, Hoover said Monday, is "a principal force guiding the country's violence-prone young militants." The past 12 months, he added, were marked by increased emphasis by the Panthers on terrorism.

He said the Black Panther party, despite a record of hate and violence, continues to receive donations from prominent Americans. "With these funds, its representatives have been able to . . . spread their doctrine of hate and revolution and further aggravate the volatile situation on our campuses."

Hoover said there were 1,785 protest demonstrations during the last school year. Eight persons were killed, 462 were injured, 7,200 were arrested and damages exceeded $9.5 million, he said.

Opportunity Telephones, Not Knocks

"Opportunity no longer knocks, it telephones," according to Miss Jean Happer, customer service advisor with the Kansas City office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., who spoke Monday at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club at noon Monday at the Hotel Bothwell.

"Your telephone," continued Miss Happer, "can be an asset, or a pain in the neck." She suggested that a good telephone personality is worth a great deal to those in business, and she stated this can be accomplished by demonstrating good manners, unfailing courtesy and good common sense. She further suggested that, "You keep a smile on your face and your voice will reflect that smile when you handle business telephone conversations."

The speaker was introduced by Bruce McCully, July program chairman.

Dr. Charles W. Monsees invited club members to participate in the 4-H Beef Show and Sale to be held the evening of July 22 in the Sheep Pavillion at the State Fairgrounds. Whole, or half, choice, or better, beef will be offered at auction on that night.

Aubrey Case, club president; read an invitation from the Kansas City Rotary Club for members and their wives to attend a dinner meeting to be held Saturday night at the Hotel Muehlebach when Rotary International President William E. Walk, Jr., Ontario, Calif., will be the principal speaker. This will be his first club address since his installation at the Rotary International convention in early June.

Guests were Del Stonebraker, Rotarian from LaHabra, Calif.; Marion Gentry, Rotarian, from Clinton; Robert Pickens, Kansas City, with Richard Lehmer, and Tom White, Phoenix, Ariz., with K.P. McCrary. Invocation was given by Ewing Gibson and singing was led by the Rev. Roy Damerson.

burning fuse. No evidence of a timing mechanism has been found. From the force of the blast, I would guess it was probably several sticks of dynamite."

Most likely, the explosive was tossed onto the floor of the rest room through a rear window which didn't lock properly, Miller said.

A serious disaster was avoided as the blast did not rupture any of the station's gas pumps or storage facilities.

In late 1968, three Hudson stations in Kansas City were bombed after the company had received threats from other firms due to the station's role in price wars. However, Shahan noted that the Kansas City Hudson stations were owned by a different corporation. Local station manager Harold Franklin said he had not heard any complaints concerning recent price wars in Sedalia.

Sgt. Robert Place of the Highway Patrol is working with the Sedalia police investigating the incident. At present, authorities have no leads in the case.

Department of Housing and Urban Development before a preliminary application can be made for federal funds, Byrum said. He said it could be as much as two more months before the preliminary application is completed.

If HUD eventually approves the request, it would provide two-thirds of the money necessary to construct or remodel a center, with the city paying the balance. The city would be responsible for operational expenses of a recreation center.

The larger the number of low-income persons that would benefit from such a center, the higher the priority for funds with HUD, Byrum said.

The now-vacant St. Patrick's School on East Fourth is one of two sites currently under consideration for a recreation center, Byrum said. He did not name the other.

Ireland Parade Peaceful

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The absence of violence during Northern Ireland's huge annual Protestant celebration Monday was attributed today to the massive turnout of police and British troops and a plea for restrain from Premier Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic.

As the bands and lodges of the Protestant Orange Order drifted home early today, only one significant incident was reported. An explosion started a fire in an empty hotel in Belfast, and police said it was caused by an arsonist's incendiary bomb. No one was hurt.

More than 20,000 troops and police lined the parade routes as 40,000 Orangemen marched through Belfast and another 60,000 trudged through 16 other cities, all celebrating the defeat in 1690 of James II's Roman Catholic troops by William of Orange's Protestants at the Battle of the Boyne.

The annual parades, hated by Northern Ireland's Catholic minority as drum-beating assertions of Protestant domination, were widely expected to give fresh impetus to violence which has taken 14 lives in the past three weeks. But the peace was kept.

Along with the tight security, credit also was given to Lynch's appeal last week for order. Northern Ireland's deputy premier, Brian Faulkner, praised Lynch's speech and said the calm which followed was a victory for common sense.

Other observers warned against optimism.

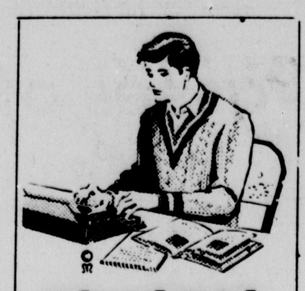

"Anybody who wanted to start something could pick better times than when the entire security forces are on the alert and waiting," one said. "In this game it's the unexpected that's effective."

Two Brothers Drown In Gasconade River

MOUNT STERLING, Mo. (AP) — Two brothers from Linn, Mo., drowned after one suffered cramps and the other tried to help him Sunday in the Gasconade River three miles upstream from Mount Sterling.

The highway patrol said Ted Wayne Linhardt, 22, was stricken with cramps, and his 19-year-old brother, Gary, went to his aid.

A companion, John E. Leinberger, 32, of Linn, swam after a boat, but he said the brothers had disappeared when he reached shore.

student reports

Kent E. Cordry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Cordry, 2401 West Second, has been named to the dean's honor list at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, for the spring semester.

To qualify, students must earn at least a 3.5 grade point average, with no grade below C.

Carries Offering Reactions

NEW DELHI (AP) — Deputy Foreign Minister Nikolai Firyubin of the Soviet Union flew back to Moscow today, carrying reactions from Hanoi and New Delhi to an apparent Kremlin proposal to bring peace to Indochina.

A general outline of the Soviet thinking emerged from meetings he had with Foreign Minister Swaran Singh and an 80-minute conference with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Firyubin, a specialist in Asian affairs, stopped here for three days on his way home from Hanoi.

Foreign Ministry sources said the Soviet proposal involves the convening of a Geneva-type conference on Indochina that would be linked with a major peace gesture from the United States.

This gesture, these sources said, could be in the form of a U.S. commitment to make a phased military withdrawal from Indochina which could take place even after the Geneva conference is held.

Indian sources said the Russians believe the United States must make such a gesture to convince North Vietnam of American sincerity and to give Hanoi a motivation for attending the conference.

It was pointed out that North Vietnam agreed to meet the United States for peace talks in Paris in 1968 only after President Lyndon B. Johnson announced a halt in bombing over North Vietnam.

India would likely welcome a broad-based Geneva conference, especially if it was linked with a U.S. pledge to withdraw troops from Indochina.

Abuse Trial Shocks

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A deputy juvenile officer testified Monday he found a naked three-year-old boy confined in a wood-and-wire cage about four feet square in the basement of a Kansas City home last December.

The officer, Charles Gardner, was called by the state in Jackson County Circuit Court in the trial of Paul Worley, charged with child mistreatment.

The boy who was confined, Gardner said, was Worley's son, Raymond.

Also testifying was Raymond's 14-year-old brother, Jerry Worley, who made the report that led Gardner to the Worley residence. The boy said the family lived in Spring Hill, Kan., southwest of Kansas City in Johnson County, from July, 1968, to July, 1969.

At that time, young Worley said, Raymond was kept tied at night inside two orange crates placed together. He said Mrs. Worley, Raymond's stepmother, ordered him (Jerry) to tie Raymond in this fashion, and he complied.

Jerry said his father worked at two jobs, often seven days a week, and was not aware of the day-to-day treatment of Raymond.

Dr. Richard L. Dreher of Children's Mercy Hospital testified his examination of the child Dec. 18 showed him to be emaciated with bruises on the body and arms. Dr. Dreher said the child's wrists and ankles were ulcerated, the hands and feet swollen and the abdomen grossly disfigured.

Airlines Fighting Satellite Scheme

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's major airlines are battling a plan by American and European space agencies to set up a costly satellite system for control of air traffic across the North Atlantic.

The airlines contend the proposed system, which the space agencies say would be a valuable aid in preventing collisions in skies becoming more crowded by the month, is premature and too expensive.

In an effort to resolve the dispute, the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have invited the domestic and foreign airlines and their trade organizations, the Air Transport Association and the International Air Transport Association, to a special briefing here Aug. 12.

NASA has budgeted $3 million for study of the system during the current fiscal year.

The airlines, through ATA and IATA, have said they don't need such a system for some years and don't want to be saddled with its cost.

Dr. Richard Marsten, director of NASA's communications satellite program, told newsmen recently a prototype satellite air traffic control system costing $70 million could be established over the North Atlantic by 1975.

He said that within five years the proposed system could help U.S. airlines avoid delays on trans-Atlantic routes that would cost them more than $400 million.

Marsten said the prototype system could lead to an advanced automatically operated type in the early 1980s, and give pilots continuous and exact knowledge on their location throughout a flight, both with regard to other aircraft and in relation to the ground.

With trans-Atlantic traffic doubling by 1975 and doubling again by 1985, he said, the system would be a valuable aid to avoiding collisions.

In mid-June IATA and ATA declared the NASA-ESRO proposal was economically unjustified and unrealistic and they would refuse to support such a program through user charges or by carrying airborne equipment at airline expense.

Jazz Festival Ends

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The 1970 Newport Jazz Festival wound up three days of afternoon and evening concerts with total attendance of about 40,000 compared with upwards of 60,000 in previous years.

The festival returned to traditional jazz this year, leaving out the rock and folk rock groups promoter George Wein billed last year in an attempt to attract youthful listeners.

For that reason the audiences this year were for the most part older and quieter.

Spanish Touch Is Exciting

This season marked the arrival of a new afternoon and evening wear manufacturer, Don Luis de Espana of Spain. How To Make It In a Man's World

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Letty Pogrebin breezed into her office, her blond hair straight and streaming. She wore a red, white and blue mini-culotte jumpsuit. She was smiling as she surveyed her office — modern, airy, sunny. Like Letty Pogrebin.

Letty Pogrebin is vice president of Bernard Geis Associates, a New York publishing firm. She is also the author of a new Doubleday book, "How to Make It in a Man's World." And she is a wife and mother of three children.

Her book tells, literally, how to make it in a man's world, not as a secretary, but as a productive, contributing woman. Letty gives advice like, "Type, but not too well, otherwise you'll never get out of the typing pool." And she suggests reading every piece of correspondence that comes into the office before you file it.

"At one of the places I worked," Letty said, "I read all the correspondence between one of the editors and (the late) Bertrand Russell. It was fascinating."

What's most interesting about Letty's book is that it's the story of her success.

At 28, Letty has worked for 11 years in publishing. She was head of book promotion at Bernard Geis by the time she was 21. And she has managed to maintain a little girl quality — an innocence and exuberance — that caused acid-tongued critic Rex Reed to say of her, "Letty looks like Dorothy on her way to Oz . . . she is there."

The main focus of her book is that a woman should enjoy her work — not settle for some easy, unchallenging job and get into a rut.

But where Women's Lib members raise their voices (and sometimes their fists) in protest, Letty uses charm and persuasion and her bubbly, enthusiastic little girl's voice.

To men who defensively maintain that women are "too emotional" in work situations or that women are "poor employment risks because they can always get married and leave to have babies," Letty tosses her head. She has been involved in her career actively for 11 years. During that time, she has married and had three children and neither she, nor her husband, nor her children nor her employer seem to have suffered.

"Women should be paid on their ability to do the work," she maintains.

To Letty Pogrebin, work isn't work — it's an adventure.

Ann Landers

Husband and Wife Must Solve Problem

Dear Ann Landers: After reading the letter in your column from a woman whose husband wanted her to have an affair with another man so she would have something to compare him with, I decided to write. My problem is along the same line.

N. and I have been married for seven years. I was 17 when we married and N. was 19. I was a virgin and and he had been around some, but not much. Our sex life wasn't great but we both figured it would get better. Well, it hasn't gotten any better. It has gotten worse.

N. works with a very attractive man. (I'll refer to him as K.) K. is ten years older than I am. He has become a family friend and has dinner with us often. Last week N. had to go out of town. He asked K. to take me to dinner and to a movie. The two of us had a nice time but I was uneasy. I sensed some high-voltage sexual electricity between us. When my husband returned, I told him in a half-kidding way that K. turned me on. Tonight he came up with a suggestion. He thinks I ought to have an affair with K. in order to learn if I am at fault for our lousy sex life or if he is to blame. My husband has it figured out this way: If nothing happens between K. and me, then I am the one who needs professional help. If K. and I ring bells and hear a thousand violins, my husband needs counseling. He has promised to get it.

I swear this letter is no put-on. He means it and so do I. We await your answer. — On The Verge

Dear On: Get off the verge and use your head. The problem exists between you and your husband and that's where it should be resolved. I recommend joint-counseling by a physician who is competent to deal with the problem. (Not all physicians are.) Your gynecologist would be your best bet. A husband who could hatch such a sick scheme needs help either way. I think he has a little trouble both above and below the Mason-Dixon line.

Dear Ann Landers: I didn't like your answer to the reader in Kitchener, Ontario worth a darn. The lady wrote to say she hated to have her woman friend's hands on her during conversation. It made her nervous and she said so. Instead of giving that nice a lady sensible answer, you turned the whole thing around and made it look like she was the nutty one because she didn't like to be nudged, pawed, petted and stroked.

I'm a person who doesn't care to be touched by people during conversation and I am not crazy. When folks who talk to me start to get tactile, I take their hands off me in such a way that they know I don't like it. This cures them fast. I suppose you think I'm loony, too. — Touch Me Not

Dear Touch: No, I don't think you are kooky. I think your solution is a good one. In fact, if you re-read my column you will see that this is the solution I suggested. The woman who wrote to me said she became so upset when her friend touched her that she had to leave the luncheon and go home. And I call THAT loony.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from an office worker who wanted to know what to do about a very good friend who was forever bumming cigarets.

I have a fine solution for her. Stop smoking. Do two people a favor. — One Who Did and Rejoices Daily

Dear Daily: Great idea. Too bad it isn't as easy to do as it sounds.

How will you know when the real things comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Crash Victim Is In Critical Condition

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former State Rep. William T. Bollinger, 54, remains in critical condition at St. John's Hospital in suburban Creve Coeur from injuries suffered in a southern Missouri plane crash Monday.

The pilot of the private aircraft, a Cessna 210, was Hershel E. Crass, 50, who died of burns several hours after the crash.

Crass was coordinator for regional planning for the Department of Community Affairs.

Crass was quoted by the highway patrol as saying he became ill and blacked out as the plane was taking off from Big Springs Park airport near Van Buren. The aircraft slammed into a hillside and burned.

Crass and Bollinger were headed for Jefferson City. Both resided at Van Buren.

Filming Location Problem

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One thing that has the independent producers worried is where they are going to film television series if the big studios keep selling off their lots.

At least one major producer has suggested leaving Hollywood, and others have called for the construction of a high-rise studio with the sound stages stacked one on top of the other.

The concern over dwindling studio space was pointed up in late June when Gulf & Western Industries sold a half interest in the 52-acre Paramount lot to an Italian real estate company.

Unlike the movies, television requires that some sets be left standing for years. Only an occasional peripatetic production "Then Came Bronson" can be done entirely on location.

Quinn Martin, who rents space at Warner Brothers for "The FBI" and at Goldwyn Studios for "Dan August," said, "Some of us independents have talked about buying a studio. We're afraid we might get squeezed out if studio space gets tight. What we really need is a high-rise studio."

Much the same view was expressed by Aaron Spelling, who is producing "Mod Squad," "Most Deadly Game" and "Silent Force" at Paramount. "Maybe there'll be different kinds of lots. I think we shouldn't take up the sprawling space with studios. The big cost of a studio is the land. A sound stage doesn't cost anything.

"You don't need a back lot any more. If I need an exterior shot I go off and shoot it on location."

David Dortort, who has just moved "Bonanza" and "High Chaparral" from Paramount to Warner Brothers, said he would consider moving out of Hollywood.

"We shoot more of 'High Chaparral' in Tucson than here," he said. "If they had sound stages there I might consider moving the whole operation there. I think many of the film people unemployed here would love to be employed in Phoenix or Santa Fe."

Dortort said he had met with governors and legislatures of several states and had urged them to appropriate funds to build facilities.

He said it is becoming increasingly difficult to shoot an outdoor series in Hollywood. "The smog, the noise, all the outdoor sites are being eaten up by housing," he said. "It's now a long drive to location, and that takes money."

Spelling said he would like to film some of his episodes in such places as San Francisco and Memphis, but added, "I'm not going to run away. This city needs help."

Dortort said, "I'm not saying there's no place for Hollywood. What I'm saying is that there is a place for Hollywood—and other places. With the new equipment you can shoot any place in the world, then come back here for your post-production work."

Cynthia Lowry is on vacation.

Brothers To Trial

KENNETT, Mo. (AP)—Brothers Theodore and Dennis Kleine, of St. Louis, aged 19 and 18 respectively, go on trial Sept. 15 in the fatal shooting of two other St. Louis residents in southeast Missouri's Dunklin County.

They entered pleas of innocent Monday to charges of slaying Mary Lou Suetter, 17, and Francis Radford on June 20. They also waived a preliminary hearing.

Unused Birdcage Stand Makes Nifty Bird Feeder

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Helen's query as to what she could do with her old birdcage reminded me of one that a friend had ingenuously turned into a planter. I then bought a birdcage at an antique shop to use for this purpose. Mine holds a group of small pots with trailing greenery, to which I have added a few plastic blooms for color. I am sure you would both agree this makes a marvelous focal point.—HELOISE

DEAR POLLY—Helen will find that the stand to her no-longer-used birdcage can make a very good bird feeder. Either hang a box or pan from the arm or use the bottom of the cage by spreading some of the wires. My sister used one to make a swell pole for her outdoor gas light. Also, such a stand could be used as a nice hanger for a name or street number plaque.—LILLIAN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Again I am faced with an old and unpleasant problem. I hope some of the readers know of a practical way to clean and then keep clean the area of window sill between a screen and the inside window. I have tried pouring water in this space and cleaning with a rag but this makes such a mess and the water runs down the outside of the house to make streaks. Any suggestions certainly would be appreciated.—MRS. J. B.

DEAR POLLY—I recently attended a Flower Show luncheon and thought the table decorations were so cute. Limbs from a thorn bush had been sprayed black and hanging from the thorns, by white plastic rings, were white nylon net pan scrapers. When the luncheon was over everyone was invited to take a net puff home as a gift.—MRS. E. P. P. Jr.

DEAR POLLY—I have to take a liquid medicine three times a day but often forgot it. Now I put the bottle on a saucer and also place THREE teaspoons on the saucer. Just a look at the saucer with the remaining spoons and I can tell if I have missed a dose. After dinner I always put THREE teaspoons out on the saucer for the next day.—MRS. W. F. R.

Crossroads Comment...

Chet Huntley, NBC television newscaster, on the eve of his retirement August 1 has sounded off in a Life magazine interview.

Refering to President Richard Nixon he opines tartly: "The shallowness of the man overwhelms me; the fact that he is President frightens me."

Come now, Chet, your penchant for hyperbolism should be a bit more restrained. Shallowness means lacking in depth of knowledge, thought or feeling. That is plain misrepresentation of the qualities of the President of the United States.

Huntley's exaggerations remind us of the German huntsman and soldier famous for his tall tales — Baron Karl Friedrich Hieronymus von Munchausen.

Church ushers encounter unique, if not dismal experiences, in the performance of their assignments. A personal experience occurred Sunday. Arriving at the entrance to Calvary Episcopal church, Broadway and Ohio avenue, we discovered the area in front of the doors profusely littered with paper cups, paper napkins, paper cartons, paper sacks, soft drink bottles, a beer can, a broken bottle, discarded, sticky chewing gum and the steps stained with spilled contents of brew and pop.

In advance of the arrival of parishoners, the trash was picked up and temporarily placed behind the shrubbery preliminary to permanent disposal. Leaning over to place some of the debris behind a shrub on the Broadway side of the building, we sighted a pair of girl's loafers in good condition with link chain over the tongue.

After taking them to the Democrat office, we decided that the owner should have the privilege of repossessing the loafers in exchange for a lecture on public tidiness but without penalty against her or her boy companions for violating the city ordinance against littering. So.....

"Dear Cinderella: Please come to the office and claim your loafers. Yours truly, Prince George."

Some hopeful comment from John Wayne refers to the time when he was a kid and could have been mistaken for one of today's hippies. The movie actor's quote: "We looked like hell, but we thought we were the cat's meow. Fortunately we outgrew it and cut our hair. And today's kids will too, when they grow up!"

Summer's Children

Lethargy, Dismals, Boredom, Ennui

By BETTY CANARY

There is a one-act play being shown now across the country. It's not a new production but a hardy perennial. Scene 1: A golden afternoon. A woman takes a cup of coffee to the terrace. She sits, wriggles her toes, savors the rich, heavy air of midsummer. An invisible bird whirrs somewhere. The woman softly murmurs a line from Shakespeare — "And summer's lease hath all too short a date..."

From inside the house where children shelter themselves from sun and air, her offspring whine a chorus. "What's there to do, mother? What'll we do NOW?"

"Have a picnic?" she calls lightly.

"We had a picnic," they reply.

"Collect moths! Goodness knows I saw enough of them on my bedroom windows last night!"

The children stare.

Mother delivers a short soliloquy. "Such ungrateful children are these! Bicycles to ride, a swingset, a sandbox! And one literally stumbles through the mounds of outdoor games they possess. How fortunate they are."

The children roll their eyes.

"Good grief!" she cries. "Leave me alone. Go cavort on the beach or something!"

"Motherrrrrr!" the children groan.

"How about running away from home? I could get your bags packed in two minutes!"

They consider this suggestion but in the end reject it for perfectly legitimate reasons. First, because where else would they find one who would so willingly listen to their complaints about the dullness of summer afternoons? Second, if they left home it would mean coming OUTSIDE.

Scene II: Sighing loudly, the woman enters house, returns to her lawn chair carrying a folder. Inside are many clippings from articles giving suggestions on how to amuse children on sunny summer afternoons.

She chants: "Hold a circus; build a tree-house. Have an art show; make a totem!"

The children shake their heads glumly.

"Tennis tournament? Relay races! Croquet contest? Back yard camping!"

The children turn thumbs down.

Just when we begin to think the play is going to have an unhappy ending, black clouds appear on the horizon. It begins to pour rain.

Scene III: The children dash from the house and splash madly about in swiftly forming mud puddles. Mother softly closes window. She hums a gay little tune while tearing up the last article from the folder. It was a list of suggestions on games to play indoors when it rains.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

U.S. Convicts Abused, Too

WASHINGTON — Outraged Congressmen have raised an almighty howl about prison atrocities in South Vietnam. Their charges have been printed in black, angry headlines on the front pages of American newspapers. The State Department has sternly ordered the U.S. Embassy in Saigon to investigate the charges and report its findings to Washington.

Jack Anderson

Yet the same Congressmen who are so indignant over the maltreatment of Viet Cong prisoners, have been strangely silent about the abuse of American convicts at home. only the mildest protest has been made over the documented charges this column has published about atrocities in U.S. prisons.

Our stories have given tongue, however, to the victims who have deluged us with letters, long-distance calls and smuggled documents attesting to Gestapo-like horrors in our prisons and jails. They are suddenly breaking a hopeless, helpless silence like some mute giant chained in the dark whose anguished cries no longer will be quieted.

Admittedly, the stories come from men convicted of crimes, men whose veracity, therefore, can be challenged. But the same sickening details have come from too many unrelated sources to be ignored. Some inmates have also offered to show the scars of their mistreatment at a public hearing.

—Horror Stories—

One statement, regarded by Senate investigators as reliable, tells of an epileptic Negro, Douglas Clark, Ohio Penitentiary No. 121486, who had chemical Mace "sprayed in his rectum by seven guards."

Another report charges that Kelly Chapman, Ohio Penitentiary No. 122531, a convicted rioter, was handcuffed and thrown downstairs." When his mother complained to Warden (Harold) Cardwell, he was surrounded by guards with shotguns who threatened to kill him ... A guard punched him in the mouth and knocked him down. A lieutenant grabbed him by the throat and began choking him and beating him. Chapman was returned to the visiting room with his head smashed and blood dribbling from his mouth."

We have a report that Elbert Hawkins, Ohio Penitentiary No. 127536, "received a massive beating from a group of guards numbering 45. His head was split open." He was sent later to a state hospital for the criminally insane.

One of the guards who participated in the beating reportedly "went home afterwards covered with blood, went into the bathroom and vomited." There is actually a rule that guards with bloodstained uniforms must remove them for cleaning before leaving the prison.

The report on the guard, taken from an official Senate document, states: "One month last year he had to leave his uniform at the gate eight times for dry cleaning because he had blood on it from beating prisoners."

A prisoner named Noah Jackson, number unknown, was allegedly "stripped, handcuffed behind his back and beaten by a captain, two lieutenants and two guards. One lieutenant pulled on his testicles while Jackson screamed with pain."

Ohio Corrections head Maury Koblentz has refused to let us talk to prisoners, thus we cannot personally check out the reports. Both Koblentz and Warden Cardwell categorically deny brutality at Ohio Penitentiary. The warden, asked whether there were beatings at the prison, said: "No. Certainly not. I've heard some of these stories so long it's getting rather sickening."

—Gerald Ford's Fee—

Seafarers boss Paul Hall, the moneyed mogul of the AFL-CIO maritime trades, got indicted the other day for under-the-table political contributions. No sooner had he been charged than House Republican Leader Gerald Ford rushed over to make a speech to Hall's branch of the AFL-CIO and collected $1,000 for it.

No one should jump to any unfair conclusions about this. After all, Gerry Ford is a well-scrubbed former football hero who just won't stand for men in public life accepting questionable income.

Look at how Ford went after Justice William O. Douglas for taking a fee from the Albert Parvin Foundation which, Ford said, had ties to Las Vegas gambling interests.

Footnote: At least Ford gave his own speech. Most of the Congressmen who address the weekly luncheon of the AFL-CIO's maritime trades department give a speech written for them by Hall's staff.

—White House Whispers—

Inside the White House — White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and press secretary Ron Ziegler, both erstwhile image makers from the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency, are a bit sheepish over the anti-war commercials that have been appearing on TV and radio.

The professional touch was given to these messages by volunteers from J. Walter Thompson ... President Nixon is considering an appeal to the United Nations to protect the ancient Cambodian shrines at Angkor Wat from defilement by North Vietnamese troops ... White House communications czar Herb Klein, after his return from Southeast Asia, reported to the President that the Lon Nol government had a 50-50 chance of survival ... Klein privately described Lon Nol as "quiet, tough, realistic, who knows what he's about." Klein added that the Cambodian leader "has a high regard for Richard Nixon." ... President Nixon is pleased with his new Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare. The President told GOP congressional leaders at a private party powwow: "Elliot represents, as he should, progressive views. He's good; he knows the job; he understands the problems." ... Nixon said that Richardson's predecessor, Bob Finch, was available as a speaker to help GOP candidates. "He's particularly effective in Northern, Midwestern and Western states," said the President ... President Nixon decided to combine all anti-pollution functions in a single, independent agency after learning that 84 government bureaus claim some jurisdiction over the problem. He called it an "environmental jungle."

Looking Backward

Ninety-three Years Ago

While working in a field near Houstonia, a gentleman saw a snake glide into a hole. He concluded to dig it out, and struck a regular den, killing in all 28 snakes, garter snakes, black snakes, chicken snakes and rattle snakes. They seemed to be living on perfect terms of intimary and equality.

The first garage to be established in Sedalia for storage and service facilities only is to be opened by Dwight Bennett, formerly of the Bennett Loan Co., and Bennett Motor Company. The two-story building at Fourth Street and Lamine avenue has been leased by him from A. M. Embry, Kansas City, a former Sedalian.

Twenty-five Years Ago

The Rev. Father F. X. Polycn, formerly of Kansas City, has been assigned to St. Patrick's Parish in Sedalia, as assistant to the new pastor, the Rev. J. T. Nolan who succeeded Father John A. Biter, who has gone to Marshall. The Rev. Father R. J. O'Rourke is pastor of the Catholic churches at Bahner and Spring Fork, succeeding Father Hartigan who has been assigned to Chouteau Springs.

Thought for Today

Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that in due time He may exalt you. — I Peter 5:6.

Humility is most becoming in men. But let no one discourage self-reliance; it is, of all the rest, the greatest quality of true manliness. — Louis Kossuth, Hungarian revolutionary leader.

Demonstrators: With It or Not?

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Mass demonstrations have strange psychological effects on people caught in their centers.

On the Fourth of July, a young man (22) this reporter knows found himself in the middle of bearded activist demonstrators by the reflecting pool off the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C.

This was an accident. He was not part of that demonstration. He was sympathetic with the police—and with the message that the Rev. Billy Graham was bringing to the thousands there for Honor America Day.

Yet, he says, that when the bearded, barechested "anti" group overturned one of the huge mobile searchlights and tipped it into the reflecting pool, and chanted their obscentities and slogans, "I found myself caught up. I was a part of it. I clapped and shouted approval. And so did people around me, young and old, many in conservative clothes.

"I found myself shouting 'pig' at the police, and some other things I don't like to remember," he said. "I found myself a part of the mob. The violence reached me and stirred me up."

After it was all over and this young man had walked away from the scene, he says that he began to be ashamed of what he had done.

He went back and found a police captain and apologized.

By contrast, at another time during the celebration he found himself "within 10 feet" of Billy Graham. "I took a good look at the others crowding around him—looking at him with some sort of awe and admiration. A lot of them wore long hair. He seems to give them and me something we don't get other places.

"When the rain came on," he continued, "quite a few people gathered under some of the trees near the war memorial. There was a group holding a sort of open marijuana party. They were passing the stuff around to anyone who wanted to have some. There were numbers of older people—well-dressed—who said they'd never smoked marijuana before and thought they'd try it to see what it was like. They weren't hippies or bearded. I didn't want any part of it. It seemed to me strange what these people were doing. But maybe they were caught up as I was caught up in the demonstration."

Now it is nothing new that people get carried away in demonstrations. Hitler found this out and used it effectively. So did a score of other revolutionaries. But what is strange is that in all the demonstrations this reporter has read about, seen analyzed and "explained," little study apparently has been made as to how many of those who participate in college and street demonstrations are "with" the demonstrations—and how many are those caught up emotionally in the excitement of the moment or of the times.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

More Susceptible to TB If Test Is Positive

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — How does a positive tuberculin skin test look? Is it serious?

A—Within 24 to 72 hours after the tuberculin is introduced into the skin an area of thickened reddened skin 6mm or more in diameter is seen. This does not mean that you have active tuberculosis — only that at one time in your life you had the disease. It could have been either mild or severe but, in either case, you are more susceptible to the disease than a person whose test is negative.

Q—How does one get tuberculosis? How can it be prevented? Can it be cured?

A — The most usual way the disease is acquired is by inhaling the minute droplets exhaled in coughing, laughing or talking by a person with active tuberculosis or by kissing such a person. The chief means of prevention is early recognition of persons with active tuberculosis and their treatment in a sanitarium.

Although treatment must be prolonged (18 to 24 months), the disease can be cured with modern drugs. Relapses often occur, however, in persons who fail to get sufficient treatment or fail to report for periodic checkups after they appear to be cured.

Q—I have tuberculosis and am taking Pasalate and isoniazid. Will they cure this disease? What are their side effects?

A—These drugs will cure you if the treatment is carried on long enough. Isoniazid may cause dizziness, drowsiness, headache and nausea. Pasalate should not be taken by anyone with a kidney, liver or stomach ailment.

Q—What effect does alcohol have on a person who has tuberculosis?

A — Since such a person needs all the strength and resistance he can build up to combat his disease, he should avoid alcohol. Excessive use of alcohol interferes with proper nutrition. Furthermore, it is the cause of many tuberculous patients failing to take their disease seriously and failing to continue treatment until they are completely cured.

Q—A man who lived in our apartment building was hospitalized for a year for tuberculosis. His apartment was never fumigated. Now he is cured and has come back. Is there any danger of getting tuberculosis from his apartment?

A—No. Fumigation is not required.

Watch an expert play any game and it will all look so easy. The golf pro drives 250 yards or more and, if he doesn't land in the middle of the fairway, he doesn't seem to have any real trouble with the rough or sandtraps.

The dummy presented no problem to the Professor. He won the spade opening and promptly led a trump to dummy's king. Then he played back a trump and played low from his own hand. This play is known as the obligatory finesse. Had West started with just ace and one trump, he would have had to play the ace. As it was, West won with the jack, cashed the ace of trumps and the spade queen and continued the spade jack.

The Professor ruffed. So far the play had been perfectly normal. The Student, who had seen the four diamonds in the East hand, expected his hero to play out his last trump and then wind up explaining that the four-one diamond break had made it impossible to bring home the contract but, much to the Student's surprise, the Professor played his king of clubs, led a club to dummy's ace and ruffed a third club.

East had discarded a spade on the third trump and a club on the third spade, so the three rounds of clubs had established dummy's last club as a winner.

The obligatory finesse hadn't helped but the automatic squeeze had been there all the time. As the Professor explained, the key had been for him to discard a diamond, not a club, from dummy on the third spade lead to retain the four clubs as a threat against poor East.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Where in North Dakota have coal beds been burning for hundreds of years?

A—The burning lignite beds near Amidon can be seen for miles at night. The fire has advanced only a few hundred feet since 1900, although it has burned continuously.

Q—When and where did Babe Ruth hit the last home run in his major league career?

A—On May 25, 1935, at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, where Ruth's team, the Boston Braves, played the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Q—By what name are legal holidays known in Great Britain?

A—Bank holidays.

Modern Drugs Useful In Treatment of Psoas

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What is the cause of a psoas abscess? What is the best treatment?

A — A psoas abscess is a "cold" (slowly forming, non-inflammatory) abscess arising from a disease, usually tuberculosis, of the lumbar vertebrae. The pus formed descends into the sheath of the psoas muscle, which is attached to the involved vertebra. A combination of surgery and modern antituberculosis drugs is used in its treatment.

Q — My son-in-law has tuberculosis of the kidneys. Is it catching? Can it be cured? What drugs are used in treating it? Is surgery ever necessary?

A — Tuberculosis of the kidney is not catching. It is treated with the same drugs used for pulmonary tuberculosis. Surgical removal of the diseased kidney is rarely necessary.

Q — If a person works in a tuberculosis hospital and his tests are negative, can he still be a carrier of the disease?

A — No.

Q — Is it true that radio and television give off harmful radiations?

A — Radio does not but color television sets do when viewed too closely. If the viewer sits at least six feet from the screen, there is no danger. You should avoid exposure to the sides and rear of the set when it is turned on. Manufacturers are constantly improving the safety of their sets.

Q — Will watching color television hurt the eyes?

A — Not if the room is well-lighted. Some persons with glaucoma develop ocular discomfort with prolonged viewing. At the first sign of such discomfort, they should stop looking.

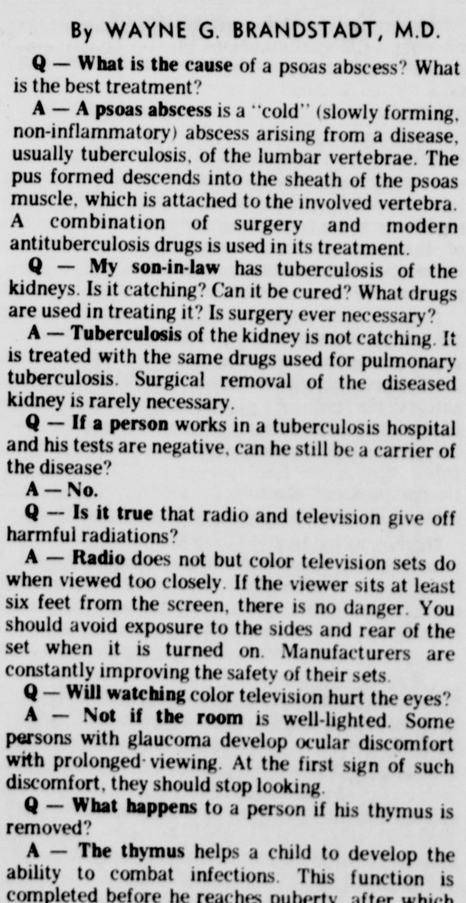

Q — What happens to a person if his thymus is removed?

A — The thymus helps a child to develop the ability to combat infections. This function is completed before he reaches puberty, after which the gland shrinks and becomes less important. It may be removed from an adult because of a tumor of the gland or because of his myasthenia gravis. In either case, the health is improved.

Q — I hear there is a need for blood donors. Where can I go to volunteer?

A — Contact your local Red Cross unit.

Aggie Signs AJ Foyt To Defend His Title

(Democrat-Capital Service)

GARDENA, Calif. — Promoter J. C. Agajanian announced Monday that defending champion A. J. Foyt of the United States Auto Club's 100-mile stock car race at the Missouri State Fairgrounds will once again participate in this year's feature, July 25.

The three-time Indianapolis 500 winner heads a list of three drivers inked Monday by J. C. Agajanian for his 100-mile USAC National Championship Late Model Stock Car race.

The 35-year old five-time national driving champion will be looking for his second straight win on the one-mile dirt track when he faces a thirty-car field in the $15,000 sweepstakes. Last fall he won the inaugural USAC stock car event on a muddy fairgrounds track.

He'll pilot a 1970 Ford Torino in the July 25th race. In four USAC Stock Car starts this season he has won three races and finished second on the other occasion. His wins were scored at Phoenix, Ariz., Indianapolis, Ind., and Irish Hills, Mich., all paved tracks.

One of automobile racings all-time greats, Foyt was the 1968 USAC Stock Car driving champion, and finished second in last year's point standings. Last January he captured the Motor Trend 500-mile NASCAR Stock Car race at Riverside, California.

Also signing today were Billy Ries of Skakopee, Minn. in a 1969 Camaro, and Earl Wagner of Pleasantville, Iowa in a 1969 Plymouth Roadrunner. Both are former IMCA pilots, who have switched to the richer USAC circuit.

They join defending USAC National Stock Car driving champion Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz., who will pilot a 1970 Plymouth Roadrunner.

The thirty fastest qualifiers of the day will start the 100-mile feature. Time trials will start at 1 p.m., preceded by practice runs at noon.

Foyt, Weld Battle

Three-time Indianapolis 500 winner A. J. Foyt (1) wheels his Ford Torino inside of Kansas City's Greg Weld, during last fall's 100-mile USAC Late Model stock car race at the Missouri State Fairgrounds. Foyt who has already won three USAC National Championship Stock Car features already this year, has signed to pilot a 1970 Ford Torino in J. C. Agajanian's second annual USAC 100-mile late model stock car race here July 25th. Foyt will be after the record $15,000 in prize money offered for the afternoons racing on the one-mile dirt track.

Star Tilt's Highlight: New Turf

CINCINNATI (AP) — Everybody wonders what kind of bounces the baseballs will take tonight in the first All-Star Game ever played on a wall-to-wall carpet. Everybody except Jim Palmer.

Palmer, whose strong right arm hopefully will provide the impetus for an American League challenge to the National's seven-year All-Star reign, is more concerned about balls that don't bounce. And he has 148 good reasons to worry.

"How am I going to relax tonight with that line-up waiting for me?" the Baltimore Orioles' pitching ace mused Monday after he was given the AL starting assignment opposite Tom Seaver of the New York Mets in the 41st All-Star Classic.

Lined up against Palmer on the Astroturf of glossy Riverfront Stadium, new home of the Cincinnati Reds, will be six of the game's most prolific long-ball hitters—San Francisco's Willie Mays, St. Louis' Richie Allen, Atlanta's Hank Aaron, Cincinnati's Tony Perez, Rico Carty of the Braves and Johnny Bench of the Reds.

They have belted a total of 148 home runs this season while batting an aggregate .313.

"When I heard Seaver was pitching, I thought he might be an out man for me," Palmer said. "Then I found out he hit one too last week."

Seaver, the National League's 1969 Cy Young Award winner, hit his first major league homer last Thursday night while beating Montreal for his 14th victory of the year. He has pitched three scoreless innings in two previous All-Star appearances.

Palmer, 12-6, will be making his All-Star debut. He got the starting nod from AL Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles because of the National's predominantly right-hand hitting lineup. All of the NL starters swing from the right side except shortstop Don Kessinger, a switcher.

Palmer isn't taking anything for granted, however.

"I've pitched against some of them before," he said. "Aaron almost killed Brooks Robinson with a line drive off me in an exhibition game. Bench hit a grand slam homer off me in the International League a couple of years ago.

"Somebody told me Perez hits the curve ball, hits the fast ball and hits the slider. There's not much else to throw him, is there?"

While Palmer should have his hands full against the NL deep-six, starting with leadoff man Mays, a perennial sparkler in All-Star play, there'll be no easy pickings for Seaver and his thus-far unnamed successors, either.

Power also abounds in the American League line-up with Harmon Killebrew, 26 homers, Frank Howard, 24, Boog Powell, 23, and Carl Yastrzemski, 21.

Leader-National leads 22-17 with one tie.

The Detroit Tigers drew 1,577,481 fans during the 1969 season, seventh best in their history.

Television This Year For Reggie

OAKLAND (AP) — "I'm a good hitter, I believe that. I'm not a .220 hitter," said Reggie Jackson.

A year ago, the young Oakland Athletics' outfielder was looking forward to his first All-Star Game. He was racing the historic home run paces of Babe Ruth and Roger Maris.

Tonight, he'll be home when the All-Stars play in Cincinnati.

"I didn't enjoy playing in the All-Star game as much as I enjoyed just being there to watch it," he said last week.

"It's great to see all those players together on one field."

Jackson was the hottest thing in baseball when the All-Stars gathered last July in Washington. He had 37 home runs at the time and was six games ahead of Maris' 1961 pace that resulted in a record 61 homers.

Now, he's just a struggling 24-year-old hitter "in a terrible, terrible slump."

As the season hit the halfway mark, he had 12 homers, 34 runs batted in and was hitting .225.

Jackson makes one thing plain. He plans to return to all-star status as a power hitter or not at all.

"I've asked Manager John McNamara and several other people if I should cut down on my swing. They all said no.

"That's not the kind of hitter I am. I've got to swing like Harmon Killebrew's, like Frank Howard's. I've got to swing like Reggie."

Jackson's hitting troubles actually began in the last half of the 1969 season. He had only 10 homers after the All-Star break. He had 118 RBI for the season and batted .275.

Machinists Get Initial Win of Year

Machinists rallied with four runs in the last inning and edged Optimists 11-10, giving them their first victory of the season Monday night in Junior Babe Ruth League action. Jack Cook, pitching in relief of Jim Vansell, was the winning hurler, while relief pitcher Randy Mitchell took the loss. Vansell supplied the punch for the winners with two doubles and a single. Pete Kostopulos gave Optimist the lead in the third with a two-run homer, while he and his brother Paul totaled five hits between them.

In the other Junior Babe Ruth game of the evening, Marty Watson pitched a two-hit shutout over Third National Bank, 19-0. S-M Sporting Goods took advantage of the extreme wildness by their mound opponents and timely hitting by Jeff McGregor to gain the lopsided victory. Bill Harris was the losing pitcher.

This evening Coca-Cola will put its perfect 10-0 mark on the line against Rotary, whose record is 9-1 at 6:30 p.m.; the 8 p.m. contest feature V.F.W. against Adco.

Camps Only Open For Rookies Now

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no agreement, so the training camp gates will not be open to National Football League veterans, the owners say.

George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears and president of the National Conference of the NFL, and Lamar Hunt, Kansas City Chiefs owner and American Conference president, said Monday the camps would open on schedule for rookies—players who have not been on any team's active roster for a regular season game in any previous year—but not for veterans.

The action was agreed on after the NFL Players' Association instructed veteran players not to report as scheduled.

Although there is a possibility of a strike by the players, negotiations on a new agreement between the players Association and an owners committee, headed by Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys, have been continuing. The two groups met in New York Monday.

The following reasons were given by the owners for banning veterans from camps until a settlement is reached:

—Each club will get the same amount of training time for veterans and the games' competitive scale will remain balanced.

—Allowing some veterans to report on their own would prove a disruptive influence.

It was decided to open the camps to rookies to give the new men a fair opportunity to make a squad.

John Mackey, NFLPA president, had no comment on the Halas-Hunt statement.

Mackey, however, in a statement issued early today, said:

"Negotiations with the owners are continuing but little progress has been made on the economic issues and on NFL player rights. We have communicated frequently with all player representatives in the NFL and they in turn have been in touch with their respective team's players.

"We have asked that no NFL player report to training camp until these disputes are settled. I am pleased to report that word has been received from our player representatives that our membership is unanimously supporting our negotiating team and the position we have taken "The proposals which we have presented to the owners and our total approach to negotiations have been reasonable. However, we intend to stand firm in our attempt to secure a fair settlement regarding issues which will have a long-range impact on all NFL players. We have, as I said, made our proposals. Now it is up to the owners to respond."

Frank Robinson Returns To New Redleg's Home

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Robinson was standing in Riverfront Stadium, site of tonight's 41st All-Star Baseball Game, but his thoughts kept drifting to Crosley Field.

"It's great to be back," said the Baltimore Orioles slugger, a star with the Cincinnati Reds for a decade. He will be playing his first game in Cincinnati since the controversial trade with the Orioles in 1965 for Milt Pappas, Dick Simpson and Jack Baldschun.

"It would have been better for me though to be playing in Crosley Field," the only man to win the most valuable player award in both leagues said.

"You remember a catch you made there and a hit here in the old park," he said. The Reds left tiny Crosley Field for their plush 51,000-seat stadium June 30.

Robby admitted driving by Crosley Field to visit the Leo Cardenas family. "I just looked. I didn't say anything as I drove by," he said. Cardenas, now a Minnesota Twin, was a Cincinnati teammate.

A man watching the American League stars in batting practice Monday asked Frank if he were a young 35.

"No, an old 34," he answered, obviously referring to the remark former Reds owner Bill DeWitt made after the trade. DeWitt said Robby was an old 30 at the time.

Despite his differences with DeWitt, the native Texas has a soft spot in his heart for Reds fans.

"They booed me only once here in 1965 when I was in the midst of an 0-for-22 batting slump. When I got a hit, they did the same thing I did—cheered," he recalled.

Robby, in the twilight of an 18-year pro career that has put him in the $120,000 salary class, hedges on a playing timetable.

"After some games, I feel like it should be my last," he said. "After others, I feel like I could play a long time."

The big outfielder, appearing in All-Star game for the ninth time, is off to a good start in 1970 with 17 homers, 51 runs batted in and a league-leading .330 batting mark.

VFW Lets Lead Slip; S-M Wins

V.F.W. had mounted a 5-1 lead by the fourth inning, but Broadway Realty chased across seven runs in the fifth inning when they sent 11 men to the plate and later took a come-from-behind victory over V.F.W., 8-5. John Coxon sparked the Broadway attack with a three-for-three plate performance.

The win went to Jim Lewis while Scott Purchase was tagged with the loss.

In the other contest in the Senior Babe Ruth league, the only runs scored in the game were three in the first — two by S-M Sporting Goods and one by Pepsi-Cola. S-M's lead held and they added to their advantage in the overall season's standings.

S-M picked up six hits in the contest — two each by Steve Herzberg and Randy Kidwell.

Bob Pledge, the winning pitcher, drove in the two runs for S-M in the first inning; Terry Hudson was tagged with the loss.

Williams Not On 70 List

CHICAGO (AP) — Despite a .317 average, 26 home runs and 80 runs batted in, don't look for Billy Williams' name on the National League All-Star roster.

Instead of going to Cincinnati Monday, the Chicago Cub slugger packed up, picked up Tom McCraw of the Chicago White Sox and headed for a Wisconsin fishing holiday.

Williams, who has appeared in four pervious All-Star games, was truly a victim of circumstances.

The Cub double play combination of Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert was voted on the team by the fans and Manager Gil Hodges of the New York Mets had to make a tough choice.

He could have taken Williams or teammate Jim Hickman, who in nine years never came close to making an All-Star team. Hodges chose Hickman at the apparent expense of Williams.

Cub Manager Leo Durorher chose not to get in on any controversy and said "Williams is some kind of player who is having some kind of a year and I'm just tickled pink that Hickman made the team."

Williams, who has a current record streak of 1,067 consecutive games going, had mixed emotions on being left off the squad.

"Didn't give it much thought a couple of weeks ago," said Williams "and really didn't care to play because I need the rest. Then I got into that hot streak.

"When I wasn't selected I looked at my credentials and thought 'What does a guy have to do to make it'. I guess you could say I'm a little disappointed only because when you make the team you know you're with the best.

"But on the other hand, I'm tired and I can really use the rest," said Williams. "I've got all the fishing gear packed and Tommy and I are going to have a lot of fun fishing."

S-M Splits With Mike O'Connors

HOUSTONIA — The Mike O'Connor softball team needed an extra inning to down Houstonia S-M Sunday night, 5-4, but they weren't so lucky in the second contest as S-M chased across two runs in the bottom of the seventh to top the visitors, 8-7.

Ernie Dowe kept S-M in the first game with two homers, while he aided his teammates in the second contest with a three-for-four batting performance.

Sr. Babe Ruth Selects Stars

The Sedalia Senior Babe Ruth team has been selected by the coaches and managers of the league.

The squad is paced by five veteran hurlers — Bob Pledge, Terry Hudson, Steve Eck, Jim Lewis and Bob Geotz. The pitching staff helped hurl Sedalia squads to state championships in both Junior and Senior Babe Ruth divisions, in 1968 and 1969 respectively.

Four of the all-stars, Geotz, Hudson, Charlie Snyder and Dennis McFarland, were all batting over the .400 mark at the end of last week's competition.

Other members of this year's squad include Ben Embree (.263), Steve Gerlecz (.273), Pete Green (.270), Steve Herzberg (.220), Steve Holmes (.296), Chuck Huddleston (.370), Mark Jones (.357), Paul Kirby (.217), Roy Poynter (.154), John Russler (.303) and Randy Smith (.236).

This year's two alternates for the squad are Ken Hampy (.188) and Steve Phillips (.353).

Roy Riggs has been named manager of this year's tournament team, while Dale Brown and Dave Kirby will be the coaches. Kirby was a coach on last year's squad.

Nine of the 18 players are returning from last year's squad, which won the state championship and journeyed to Wellington, Kan., where they played in the Central Section Tournament. This is the same tourney that the Sedalia Sr. Babe Ruth League is hosting this year.

Those repeating players include Eck, Geotz, Gerlecz, Green, Huddleston, Hudson, Kirby, Pledge, Poynter.

The Central Sectional Tournament will begin at Liberty Park on July 31.

The manager and coaches agree that with the strong pitching the locals have selected, they should be in contention for the title.

Nicklaus Blasts Beard For Comments in Book

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — You remember Jack Nicklaus—the 30-year-old golfer that fellow pro Frank Beard, in his book, said was washed up.

"That's the same hogwash I've been listening to for three years," frowned Nicklaus. "I was over the hill at 27, at 28 and at 29. Now I'm through at 30."

While Beard, yet to win a major title, remained in the United States, the trimmed-down Nicklaus edged Doug Sanders in a playoff for the British Open championship at classic old St. Andrews, Scotland.

"Any golfer worth his salt has to cross the sea and try to win the British Open," Nicklaus said, fingering the 98-year-old British Open trophy. "When you drive up to the Royal and Ancient Golf Club, you have to be motivated."

Beard wrote in his book that Jack's links desire had waned. That he didn't work at it any longer. That the incentive just wasn't there.

"I am 30 and have won 10 major golf championships," Nicklaus said, pushing back overgrown blond hair. "Bobby Jones, the biggest name in golf history, won a record 13."

"I plan to win 14 and keep on going."

It was only by the grace of Sanders' errant putter that Nicklaus had a shot at his second British crown. Doug blew a three-footer in Saturday's final round on No. 18, sending the classic into a playoff.

Nicklaus, as the boxing buffs say, will be a "fighting champion." He will play this week's Philadelphia Classic and keep going for another four weeks without a rest.

"I played the best 72 holes of my life—from tee to green—at St. Andrews," he said following a nine-hour flight from London to Miami. "No bad drives, no real trouble. My putting wasn't super. I used as many strokes on the big greens as I did off them."

The greens at the St. Andrews Old Course average six acres in size, compared to three acres on United States courses.

Nicklaus feels his previous major titles came in such rapid-fire fashion that, "I didn't fully realize the importance. Then after going three years without such a victory, I am suddenly absorbing the 100 per cent meaning."

"It'll take me a week to unwind from this win," he continued. "I can't see how I'll be up for the Philadelphia tournament, but I'd like to be."

The ancient British Open trophy, bearing golf's most famous names of the past century, was still in two parts when the Nicklauses arrived back home. Tony Jacklin, who won the 1969 title, had lost the key to its case and officials had to force open the lock.

Title Tilt With Little Bear-Race

Viking

"Dropkick" Barnes

Stylish Danny Little Bear is set for another defense of his Central States wrestling crown when he swings into action tonight in the Convention Hall ring.

The fast-moving, highly-skilled Indian from Oklahoma, will put his title on the line to meet a challenge from hard-hitting Harley Race.

The best of three-falls clash between those two will top a four-event program beginning at 8:15.

Little Bear turned up for the pairing with an impressive showing last week as he and Bob Geigel blasted a team composed of Oki Shikina and Scandor Akbar.

Race, who's been pointing to a title shot for some time, earned it for sure with a strong performance last Tuesday against Pat O'Connor, the former world champ from New Zealand.

Race, a 250-pounder with a good deal of raw power, is an aggressive wrestler who relies little on intricate maneuvers. He prefers to stand and slug it out, counting on his heft and eagerness to serve him well. Whether such tactics will work against an opponent as capable as Little Bear is something else.

Shikina will come back tonight to try his hand against unpredictable Rufus Jones, a 280-pound Alabaman whose unusual offensive style has confounded many foes.

Meeting in the special event will be the battle-tested Viking and a newcomer calling himself "Dropkick" Barnes.

Another with the unusual name of "Beautiful Bushman" will go against Frank Hester in the opener.

Stram Says Game May Be Jeopardized

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Coach Hank Stram of the professional football champion Chiefs indicates the Kansas City - College All-Star game July 31 in Chicago may be jeopardized if differences between club owners and the National Football League Players Association are not resolved soon.

Stram said "We'll go on the assumption that we'll be able to play a game providing we have enough people and time, and providing we'll be physically and artistically prepared."

Milwaukee Disorder Quieted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Police moved in with tear gas, smoke canisters and riot sticks Monday night to disperse a noisy crowd of about 1,000 youths in Milwaukee, Wis.

Four policemen and a youth were slightly injured and 12 persons were arrested at Water Tower Park, scene of an earlier disturbance.

The police went into action after the crowd began tearing down signs which proclaimed a 10 p.m. curfew. Many of the youths pelted police cars with rocks and bottles, heavily damaging some of them.

Police and young people had clashed at the park July 1 and 2 after area residents and officials of a nearby hospital complained of all-night noise in the area.

Meanwhile, racially tense New Bedford, Mass., and Highland Park, Mich., were relatively calm.

The comparative quiet in New Bedford came after Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., the nation's only Negro senator, appealed to area residents to "cool it".

Before making his televised appeal, Brooke met Monday with the city's black leaders and told them he would enlist federal and state governments in an effort to get better housing and education and more jobs.

As a conciliatory gesture, Mayor George Roberts relaxed a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew imposed Sunday, moving the starting time up to 10:30 p.m.

Two New Bedford men were arrested early today and charged with unlawfully discharging firearms. Six false fire alarms were turned in. But there was none of the rock throwing, fire bombing and gunfire of the previous five nights that had cost one life and caused extensive damage.

The Detroit suburb of Highland Park had a relatively peaceful Monday night after a weekend of disturbances stemming from the barroom slaying early Saturday of a black youth.

About 125 persons have been arrested in the Highland Park disorders. There were sporadic outbreaks of minor violence Monday evening and about 25 persons were arrested.

Betty Friedan Plotting National Strike By Women

EDITOR'S NOTE—It was supposed to have been successful once before, so some modern women are adopting an ancient ploy: a general strike to force concessions from the male populace. The strike is set for Aug. 26, and in the following, Lynn Sherr of the AP Living Today Department tells what it is all about and what it hopes to achieve.

By LYNN SHERR
Associated Press Writer

The last time a nation's women went out on general strike, they stopped a war.

The date was 411 B.C.; the war was between Sparta and Athens, and it all took place in a play.

This year, some American women are planning a similar action to try to help end another war—between the sexes.

The date is August 26 and it is for real.

"We're advising women to do their own thing to confront the unfinished business of equality," explained Betty Friedan, for realm csl csl

"We're advising women to do their own thing to confront the unfinished business of equality," explained Betty Friedan, who calls herself chairperson of the event and who dreamed up the idea as former president of the National Organization for Women--NOW.

She lists the three nationwide strike demands: free 24-hour child care centers; free abortions on demand; complete equality for women in education and employment.

"The political parties, corporations, hospitals, churches, unions, mass media—all the establishment groups—have not yet really felt the urgency and power women have as 53 per cent of the population," Mrs. Friedan said.

"The strike should make visible the sheer fact of this oppressed majority."

In her role as a modern Lysistrata—the woman who talked her sisters of ancient Greece into abstaining from their men in order to end the Athens-Sparta warfare—Mrs. Friedan is urging women to march, demonstrate, sit-in, rap, stop typing, stop vacuuming, stop buying and, if appropriate, stop making love, "to do something to visibly protest the discrimination against women."

The August date was chosen to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the day the 19th Amendment—giving women the vote—was ratified. In 1920, the occasion was celebrated with one last suffrage march down Fifth Avenue in New York.

Marches and demonstrations are planned this year in Manhattan, at Chicago's Civic Center, in downtown Milwaukee and in Buffalo, N.Y.

Although many of the more radical women's groups aren't yet disclosing their plans—they stress the surprise element—the scheduled activities of women in many parts of the country forecast a nonviolent, highly energetic protest of what they consider discrimination against women on the job and in the home.

Freedom Trash Cans will be set up in Syracuse, N.Y., for women to dump "some object of their oppression—an apron, a copy of Dr. Spock, hair curlers, whatever," said Karen de Crow, eastern regional director of NOW. "And I fully expect that someone will deposit her husband."

To demonstrate the clout of female buying power, Los Angeles women are being urged not to purchase anything Aug. 26. From New York, consumer boycotts will be launched against companies considered most exploitative of women.

"We're looking at the advertising," explained a member of a Manhattan group called BITCH, which is researching a list of 50 companies. "We're looking for the companies which exploit the image of women, give a very peculiar slant to what women are really about."

The economic boycotts will be maintained, she said, until the companies agree to change their advertising and pay to women reparations for use in child care centers.

To bolster the motto that "Sisterhood is Powerful"—one of the strike's themes—members of the National Coalition of Nuns, which claims a national membership of 1,800, has agreed to participate in the Chicago protest. Sister Margaret Ellen Traxler, spokeswoman for the organization who marched in Selma, Ala., in 1965 but has never joined a feminist demonstration, said, "I personally will do anything which will further the cause of women."

In New York, women leaders are also talking about a "baby-in", in which infants will be set on the steps of City Hall to dramatize the demand for child care centers.

In several cities, the day's motto for housewives will be "Don't Iron While the Strike is Hot." And in Chicago, where Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., is scheduled to deliver a noon-hour speech in front of the big Picasso sculpture in midtown, women will also stage sit-ins in at least a dozen all-male bars.

Endorsed by the League of Women Voters, the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Labor Department and almost every women's liberation group in the spectrum, the strike claims a diverse list of sponsors: Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y.—"I have been discriminated against more because I am a woman than because I am black"—author Kate Millet, writer Gloria Steinem, congressional candidate Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., and Jeannette Rankin, the first female member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

So far, they have aroused little collective interest from large unionized groups of women: nurses, telephone workers, factory employes. But many female leaders, like the NOW members in Florida, are urging women to stay on the job and initiate private action—discussion groups, for instance—if they would be penalized for walking out.

Will Soon Announce Prosecution Plans

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Carl Gum, Cass County prosecuting attorney, who has been considering evidence in the strangling of Jo Ellen Weigel, 18, said Monday he will announce Thursday whether anyone will be prosecuted.

"The lab reports are back from the FBI laboratory in Washington where we sent some evidence to be studied," he said. "We have four large volumes of testimony we must go over before determining whether we have enough to prosecute anyone."

Gum met Monday with investigators at Lake Winnebago, where the body of the Lee's Summit girl was found July 5 wrapped in a fish net.

Lawrence Gets Processing Facility

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Robert Dewar, president of the S.S. Kresge Co., said Monday that a $10 million warehouse facility in Lawrence will become the import processing center for the firm's nation-wide operation.

Dewar's announcement came at ground breaking ceremonies for the one-million-square-foot warehouse.

He told Gov. Robert Docking and Lawrence officials that products to be sold through the 1,022 K-Mart, Kresge and Jupiter stores and imported through East and West Coast ports, would be processed for distribution at the warehouse.

"We expect this facility here to play a major part in our efforts to achieve a total of $8 billion dollars annually in sales by 1980," said Dewar.
